

An Easy Way To Send Big Files Via The Internet

Recently, one of our customers introduced a new service to us. We would be remiss if we didn't share this knowledge with you. Sending big files can be a real pain in the neck. Especially for a company that makes its living transmitting audio files from place to place using the Internet. Audio files don't really zip up all that well and even MP3 files can be too big to fit the mailboxes of customers; not to mention that most Internet providers aren't too enamored to help you send that big file and many get clogged in the system. No more.

If you have a big file to send to either us or a friend, you should pay a visit to

<http://www.yousendit.com>

This cool service is easy to use, free and allows you to send large files via the Internet with no hassles for you or the party on the receiving end. We have tried this without fail for the last 3 weeks and the service has been flawless and most importantly; free.

Consider yourself informed.